Loan Modification Do's and Don'ts

Do's

- Do make certain the loan modification company or individual you are working with is licensed with the Utah Division of Real Estate as a loan originator. Use the NMLS Consumer Access system or call 801-530-6747.
- 2. Do talk to your lender or servicer as soon as you think you could have a problem paying your mortgage on time. You will not have to pay your lender or servicer to modify your loan if you meet eligibility requirements and are qualified.
- 3. Do make your mortgage payments only to your servicer or lender.
- 4. Do make sure you understand the documents you are signing.
- 5. Do file a complaint with the Utah Division of Real Estate if you think someone offering loan modification services is trying to scam you.

Don'ts

- 1. Don't ignore mail from your lender or servicer.
- 2. Don't stop making your mortgage payments. If you do, you will move closer every month to foreclosure.
- 3. Don't pay an upfront fee for a loan modification. Fees can only be collected when your lender has agreed to modify your loan and has presented you with the new terms and contract for your approval.
- 4. Don't work with a loan modification company or individual that appears to be a government agency or government program. You can find government-sponsored mortgage modification and refinance programs at www.makinghomeaffordable.gov and http://portal.hud.gov.
- 5. Don't sign documents with blanks.
- 6. Don't sign a warranty deed or quitclaim deed giving your title to anyone. When you lose title, you lose ownership.
